The Egeria is awaiting sailing orders by the Australia, due next Wednesday. It is thought that she will go to Esquimauit, although nothing is certain. The officers on board are in a quandary about the new regulations of the Admiralty regarding gunnery on board. For some time none of the larger guns on the Egeria have been fired for fear of damaging the delicate survey instruments on board. The crew are clamoring for a chance at the prize money offered by the British Government for marksmanship in the navy. If any gun practice is had it must be between Honolulu and Esquimault while at sea

Nearly Soldiers Drowned in Harbor

Private Huber Deserves a Medal for His Daring Rescue of a Sinking Comrade.

During the time the transport Belgian King was docked at Oceanic wharf many soldiers availed themselves of the opportunity of taking a swim in the harbor and two of them n so doing narrowly escaped from

The first mishap was about 9 o'clock yesterday morning. The people on the dock and steamer were startled with cries for help from one of the men swimming. A lead line was immedistely thrown out to the man in disress, who had already twice sunk, but the weight accidentally struck him on the head. The man was stunned and would certainly have drowned had not several men jumped from the dock and swam to his ald.

The other accident occurred about 2 o'clock in the afternoon, shortly before the departure of the transport. In this case Private Jones, who had at-tempted to swim across the harbor. was taken with cramps at a consider-able distance from the vessel, and immediately sank. A fellow soldier named Huber, hearing his cries for help, jumped from where he was standing on the hurricane deck of the steamer, with all his clothes on, to swim to his rescue. By the time Jones was reached he had sunk for the last time, but was brought to the surface by the daring soldier who had gone to his aid and who dived after him Jones was practically drowned, and had just barely shown signs of life by the time the transport left. The soldier Huber, who so nobly res ued this drowning man in the manner stated above, certainly deserves great praise. He was loudly applauded by all who witnessed his brave rescue.

The schedule of the sailing of trans ports, with date of sailing and capacity as arranged by the depot quarter master's department in San Francisco changed slightly by information tele graphed from Washington, is as fol ows:
